Says Fund Listed For Local P. O. Building

The Associated Press reported this week that a Post Office Building for Appomattox is on the Post Office Department's approved list, but cannot be built until approved by Congress. Recommended for Appomattox was $260,000 for a post office building.

Other Virginia post offices on the department's approved list for post office buildings are: Amherst, Brookneal, Halifax, Scottsville, and added this week were Madison Heights, Rustburg, Lovingston and Burkeville.

The Times-Virginian knows of no plans for building a post office building here in the foreseeable future, and the project will doubtless have to wait until Congress gets around to a speed-up in public works. As a first class post office, Appomattox is entitled to increased facilities and services, but realization of these improvements often requires long periods of waiting.

Mr. Oscar Jamerson, of Garst and Jamerson here, stated this week that demand is good for veneer logs, saw logs and cross ties, with some price increases. Also good demand is noted for pulpwood.

Red Cross Disaster Fund

Appomattox County has been asked to make a contribution to the American Red Cross Disaster Fund for recent hard-hit flood areas in Eastern United States. H. E. Kerr, chanrman of the Appomattox County Chapter, Red Cross, has announced receipt of urgent appeals for immediate contributions to the disaster fund. The Red Cross is undertaking to raise, by prompt donations, a fund of $8,000,000. A quota has been assigned to Appomattox County, and Mr. Kerr appeals to church groups, individuals and others to make their contributions at once so that this fund might be raised.

Following a recent personal inspection of the flood areas, President Eisenhower described the flood disaster and appealed to the public to help the Red Cross to render aid to the areas involved. He stated, "This is a chance where each of us can rise to an emergency and prove that the American people, regardless of governments, regardless of limitations on them, can meet an emergency and do it well."

Contributions may be sent to the Red Cross, Appomattox, Va., care H. E. Kerr, chairman.

Concord Phone Service To Be Expanded

A $33,100 expansion project for the Concord Exchange has been authorized by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia, E. D. Naff, Lynchburg Exchange assistant manager, has announced.

It calls for an addition to the central office building and replacement of the community dial office equipment with a large type to take care of service demands and to provide for future growth. The work will be done some time in 1956, Naff said.

The first telephone in the Concord area was installed in November of 1945, in the residence of Dr. R. H. Cross. From then until June of 1947, Dr. Cross and 15 other subscribers were serviced out of the Lynchburg Exchange.

An unattended dial exchange was established at Concord in 1947, at a cost of $127,000. It had 150 subscribers then.

About $40,000 has been spent in expanding and improving the service since then. Today there are 225 telephones in the exchange.

The Concord project is one of a number throughout the state authorized by the C&P Board of Directors for $1,901,200. This figure brings the total autorizations by the board during 1955 to $24,251,051.

Use of Buses To Transport Town Pupils

J. A. Burke, Division Superintendent of schools, issued the following school notice today, pertaining to bus service to town children:

"Pupils in reasonable walking distance of the Elementary School will be expected to walk to school.

"Elementary pupils who have been walking to Appomattox High School should continue to do so and buses coming into that school will pick them up and take them to the Elementary school.

"Elementary pupils who are not in walking distance of either school, or have to follow a particularly dangerous walking route, are authorized to get on the buses coming nearest them and these buses will transport them to the Elementary School. If so happens that there is not room enough on the regular buses, those that are crowded will double back, or a special bus will pick them up. Bus service will be available to all elementary pupils who are beyond a reasonable walking distance to school.

"It may take a few days to get the loads and routes adjusted. We are trying to work out a plan that will cause as little confusion as possible. With patience and cooperation the plan should be working smoothly in a day or two. We are trying to arrange for as few stops as possible and request the parents in a given neighborhood or on short streets to group the children for one stop if possible."

Abbitt Speaks At Farm Rally

Lawrenceville, Va., Sept. 1.- Representative W. M. Abbitt (D-Va.) speaking at the Brunswick County Farm Family festival here today stated that "the greater the number of family-size, economically operated farms we have in America, the greater will be the strength of our institutions and our free enterprise system, and greater will be the security of the nation."

"Independent farmers were the strength of this nation when it was founded. They are among the most American of Americans."

The Fourth District Congressman said that "the fading out of the family owned and operated farm is of great concern to the nation. The family farm is one owned and operated by the family that lives on it, sufficient in size so that self-respecting men and women with their brains and their hands can hope to earn a decent living for themselves and their children."

"We have seen a steady lessening of the number of farms in recent years. This has resutled in the deterioration of many prosperous farm communities."

The Virginia lawmaker emprasized that "steps must be taken in the foreseeable future to protect, foster and promote the family farm as the continuing dominant unit in American agriculture which should include special attention to the manner in which we can adjust our farm programs to accomodate the convenience, productivity, and prosperity of the family farm unit."

Abbitt further stated that "we must realize that the prosperity of our local communities, our states and our nation is closely tied in with our agricultural resources. No nation can survive or has ever survived after the resources of the land have been devastated or depleted. To see that this doss not happen in this country of ours is one of the prime duties of all our citizenry. What-ever happens on the farms and forests of our country is of vital concern to all businesses."

The Virginia Democrat said that "the farmers are now having their troubles. Serious troubles, if you please. Drought has for the past several years burned millions of dollars worth of crops and pastures. This year, storms and hurricanes have been devastating. Farm price drops have inflicted exercuiating economic pressures on our farmers. Since 1951, net farm income has dropped 30% and there has been a 25% drop in farm prices during this time. During the same period, urban industry has grown increasingly prosperous."

Warning To Labor Day Drivers

"Don't let that long week-end coming up become a 'loss week-end,'" was the advice today of Dr. Mack I. Shanholtz, State Health Commissioner.

Cautioning Labor Day vacationers Dr. Shanholtz said that "with a little advance planning and a lot of caution your Labor Day week-end can be a gain to you in health and relaxation rather than a loss in lives." Some important health and safety rules for the September 3-5 holiday were listed by Dr. Shanholtz to insure everyone a happy homecoming. His suggestions were:

1. Make sure the eating and sleeping places you patronize are clean and safe. Food poisoning can unexpectedly upset any vacation and the best prevention is to eat hot, freshly cooked or canned foods. Stay away from high protein foods unless you know they have been properly prepared, covered from flies, and refrigerated. All milk and water should be safe to drink and if there is any question whether the milk has been pasteurized and refrigerated or whether the water comes from approved sources, it is best to use bottled drinks while on the road.

2. Take sunbathing gradually, increasing the time of exposure to the sun each day. Too much exposure results in severe sunburns which require a physician's care. Cloudy and windy days can also cause much discomfort. Avoid sunstroke or heat exhaustion by covering the head and avoiding unnecessary heat, too much eating or drinking, and strenuous exercise.

3. Always have a companion when swimming; stop before you are tired; watch for rocks, holes, and treacherous undertows, and wait after a meal before entering the water.

4. Take no chances in small boats. When fishing, watch that dangerous fishhook.

5. Exercise should be taken gradually. By not overdoing it, you will avoid aching backs, turned ankles and heart attacks.

6. Carry with you an insect repellent to help relieve the annoyance of the various outdoor insects. Those who like to wander in the woods should watch for ticks, for these tiny insects are disease carriers and should be removed immediately.

7. Be aware of the various poisonous plants growing in the woods and along roadsides. Poison ivy, poison sumac and poison oak all cause minor to severe skin irritations.

8. Carry a first aid kit and handbook with you on your vacation to help with treatment of minor accidents and emergencies.

9. Drive carefully, observing all the rules of the road. Watch for signs of fatigue and stop frequently for coffee breaks, rest periods and leg stretching.

MAIL POUCH RIPPED, BUT MAIL SAVED

Near disaster struck a pouch of first-class mail here Tuesday. A through fast train tossed off the mail pouch, and it rolled back under the speeding train, with the result that mail was scattered up and down the tracks. A hasty posse set out to round up the mail. Postmaster E. L. Smith went as far the over-head bridge east of town, gathering up mail! Many letters were torn, but so far as is known, all the mail got into the proper hands.

Says Bridges Inadequate

Almost half the bridges 20 feet or more in length on the secondary road system have load limits of less than 10 tons, a report by the State Highway Department disclosed today.

Of a total of 6,777 bridges on the state's 40,000 miles of farm-to-market roads, the report showed, 3,112 are of less than 10 tons capacity, 3,019 are in the 10 to 14 tons class, and only 642 can carry loads of 15 or more tons. There are 1,885 structures restricted to five tons or less.

The report, which is prepared annually by the Department's Traffic and Planning division, showed that the Salem district led in the number of secondary bridges with 1,450. Bristol was next with 1,125, and Lynchburg was third with 1,056.

Of the 1,889 bridges on the 8,000 mile primary system, 1,597 can carry loads of 15 or more tons, 173 have a 10 - 14 tons limit, 58 are in the six to nine tons class, and only 61 have a limit of five tons.

One of the Highway Department's objectives for the secondary system is to bring all bridges to a minimum capacity of ten tons. A study prepared by the Department in 1954 estimated that it would cost approximately $53,000,000 to bring the inadequate structures on the secondary system up to a minimum standard to serve traffic needs to 1965.

CAFETERIA NOTICE

Mrs. S. A. Lawson, manager of the cafeteria at the new Elementary School announces that the cafeteria there will serve meals the first two days of school, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 8 and 9.

A B C Profit Listed For Co.

There is no ABC Store in Appomattox County, but the county gets and uses its share, of the profits of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1955, Virginia made a profit of approximately $14,500,000 in state-operated ABC stores. This was slightly less than for the previous year. The state will keep a cut of the net, and distribute $9,354,839 to towns, cities and counties.

Appomattox County will get $20,741.05.

The Town of Appomattox will get $3,625.31.

The Town of Pamplin will get $1,042.97.

The biggest cut in the profits will go to the City of Norfolk, state's largest city, with a population within city limits of 252,605. Norfolk will get $712,653 from the ABC profits.

Vera Mill Lost By Fire

No plans have been announced as to whether or not the Vera Milling Company will rebuild its building destroyed by fire last Saturday. The mill suffered a total loss, not only of building, but of equipment, some of which was new. A considerable quantity of wheat stored at the mill was also a loss. It was the county's heaviest fire loss of the year. W. J. Covington, Jr., proprietor of the mill, and Elisha Ferguson, an employee, escaped without injury as the flames, of undetermined origin enveloped the plant.

Vera Milling Co. started in 1930 and was operated by the father of the present owners until his death six years ago.

August crop estimate promises a record farm output.

MYSTERY WRITING FOUND ON OLD WALKING STICK

A walking stick, 3 feet long, and 3/4 inch in diameter was found at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Farrar, at Evergreen. There is an amazing story about this stick. Mr. Farrar says he remembers the stick had been a round the house since his boyhood. Mrs. Farrar states that it has always been a plaything for children. And it was in that capacity that a discovery was made this week. Johnnie, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Farrar had been using the stick as a make-believe 'gun' in his games. His hands wore off the heavy varnish which looks almost like bark, on the stick, and suddenly he noted that there was "writing" on the stick! They brought it to The Times-Virginian office, and the writing is a Civil War message! We made out: 'Cut in the center of the 7 Pines Battlefield where 15,000 soldiers were killed May 3rd, 1862. Balance fought on.'". It appeared that two names were added. Maybe there is even more writing under the varnish! No doubt if this stick could speak, it could tell a revealing story!

Appomattox County's taxable values in assessed property and tax income will increase as a result of recent reassessments made by the Virginia State Corporation Commission. Ten public service corporations having property in Appomattox Co. now have property assessed at $2,710,195, as compared with $2,611,534 in 1954. The State Corporation Commission conducts an annual appraisal of such corporations, which are taxed at rates prevailing in the counties wherein the property is located.

At the prevailing tax rate, these properties will yield $67,754.88, as compared with $65,288.35 in 1954.

There was a general reassessment of real estate in this county this year by a special group of appraisers. A summary has not been prepared, but a hearing is set for Sept. 6, at the court house, to hear any complaints against the reassessment figures.
